

Mr. Sanger referred, with affection, to the early employment of George E. Kessler by his firm and said that he had with pride followed his development until he had become one of the most renowned landscape architects in the world.

The Dallas Morning News (Dallas, Texas), Vol. 28, No. 5, Saturday, 5th of October 1912; page 8, col. 2
Excerpt from article: "Park Work Viewed As Business Getter"